	Lot # 28 - "Gems of the White City in Watercolors by Childe Hassam No. 23". This is a collection of 14 lithographic prints of Hassam's watercolors of the fair buildings along with a title page that appears to be hand done (I would think by Hassam) and individually numbered. These were created at the time of the fair and were printed in a limited edition, this is number "23". Each lithograph has been matted on acid free board, each one has been matted separately except for the last 2 that are smaller, and so they were matted together. The mats are new. The color and depth of these pictures is not done justice by these photographs, they have a quality of looking like a watercolor in person. The photos show the prints with their mat lifted (the whole print that is under the mat). The last print shows the whole mat with the print. This is a very rare set from a very famous artist. Childe Hassam (1851 - 1935) apprenticed with a wood-engraver at the start of his career before becoming a famous painter.
